James Earl Ray

1924 - 1991
Fugitive
Assassin

1968 - 1969

James Earl Ray, born Eric Starvo Galt, was an American criminal, assassin, and fugitive. He is best known for his role in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in 1968. Ray was convicted of the murder and sentenced to a life term in prison. He was later paroled in 1975 and fled to London, where he lived under the name Eric S. Galt. In 1987, he was arrested and returned to the United States, where he was sentenced to the death penalty. He was executed by lethal injection on April 22, 1991.

Ray's life was marked by a series of crimes and escapes. He was born in Mississippi and grew up in a poor, rural area. He was involved in various criminal activities, including burglary and drug trafficking. In 1967, he was arrested for the murder of a woman in London. He was sentenced to a life term in prison but was paroled in 1975. He fled to London and lived there for several years. In 1987, he was arrested and returned to the United States. He was sentenced to the death penalty for the assassination of Dr. King. He was executed in 1991. Ray's case remains a controversial and widely discussed part of American history.
